Accord signed between territorial commissioners

The three territorial commissioners made a commitment to meet yearly to discuss matters of mutual interest after signing a Commissioners' Cooperation Accord last week in Whitehorse.

Commissioner of Yukon Doug Phillips, Commissioner of the Northwest Territories George Tuccaro and Commissioner of Nunavut Edna Elias will work together in their similar capacities.

"As commissioners acting in our capacity as lieutenant governors, we have common roles and responsibilities," Commissioner Doug Phillips said. "This accord reflects our commitment to meet formally once a year and to communicate on a regular basis to assist each of us in serving our territories better."
